ANDROID 8.0 AND HIGER

Download the APK file for the app, then open the APK with any file manager. You'll then be prompted to allow the permission. Tap "Settings," then enable the switch next to "Allow from this source" . From there, hit your back button, then you can resume installation.

ANDROID 7.0 AND LOWER

The exact names of the settings entries listed below may vary slightly from device to device, but the overall process should be very similar. To begin, head to your phone's main settings menu, then look for an entry titled either "Security" or "Lock screen and security."

From this menu, simply tick the box or toggle the switch next to the "Unknown sources" entry, then press "OK" on the popup.

After that, you're all set up and ready to go. From now on, you can simply download any APK installer file directly to your Android device, then tap the Download complete notification to launch it.

From there, press the "Install" app will be ready to use.
